COMPASSION

The value for December is Compassion. Children learn about compassion as they grow to appreciate other's feelings, sorrows or hardships. This leads to feelings of helpfulness, sympathy, empathy and understanding. When a child understands that other people have the same feelings, he has, this leads to feelings of compassion for that person. We can foster this compassion in many ways. One way is when a child gets hurt, we can show the other children that the child is okay and help him or her to feel better. There are also children's books on compassion: Rose Meets Mr. Wintergarden by Bob Graham, Lucy's Picture by Nicola Moon, I Walk with Vanessa by Kerascoët.

THE FINE ART OF DAYDREAMING

Many adults think a child's mind and body should be continually busy. They believe that only when kids are doing something are they learning.

But a tendency to over-schedule can actually be counterproductive to the learning process. It doesn't allow a child time to be inventive or reflective. Just as young children need periods of time for creative play, they also need time to daydream.

Daydreaming is a magical experience-anything can happen and all things are possible. The relaxed state that occurs during a daydream allows the brain to filter out distractions of the moment and to go into a creative surge of imagination and reality. Like the blending of paints, the hows, whys, and what-ifs of the daydream swirl together, forming a palette of colorful ideas.

Many a great idea begins as a daydream. Orville Wright dreamed of flying. Alexander Graham Bell dreamed of an invention to communicate over long distances. Harriet Tubman and Martin Luther King Jr. dreamed of freedom. Each held onto a dream, continued to question, and worked to make it come true.

We can help children find ways to explore their daydreams by giving them the tools to help bring the ideas into the real world. Give them time to ponder. Help them collect facts and gather materials for building and inventing. Let them choose their own methods. Help them evaluate their results. Provide opportunities to try again. Above all, we must value the questions and believe in the possibilities.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOLIDAY

- ❖ Don't get caught up in the holiday hype. The holidays are meant to spend time with family and create memories.
- ❖ Make sure that you find individual time for each child, especially when you know there will be many people celebrating the holiday with you.
- ❖ No matter what your religion, you can explain the real meaning of Christmas to your child, that for Christians it is the celebration of Jesus' birthday.
- ❖ Remember not to get your family bogged down with gifts, dinners, visiting and other holiday activities. Let your kids have fun, too!
- ❖ A good tip to remember is to involve your children in both the festivities as well as the tasks, like helping out with the dishes, wrapping and decorating.
- ❖ There are many meaningful things to do during the holidays, like donating to a food drive or serving dinner at a shelter.
